The Uwu Language

Phonology

Consonants

w [w] v [β] ([v] in some dialects)
ny [n]

Vowels

Some vowels have alternative notations which can be used when diacritics are not available:

ü /ue [y]	u [u]	ũ / un [ũ]
ö / oe [ø]	o [o]	õ / on [õ]
a [a]	aa [aː]

Tonemes

Tonemes can be written using either a diacritic on the first free vowel in a word or characters surrounding the word. Tonemes affect the whole word, not just a single syllable.

owo [ɬ]	= _{0W0} =
ówo [/l]	owo
ôwo [N]	~0W0~
òwo [۱]	-owo-
ŏwo [M]	>0W0<

Phonotactics

The syllable structure for native words is (C)V(C), with vowels and consonants alternating. There are two types of words in Uwu, uwu words and kitty words. Kitty words only contain the phonemes /ny/, /a/ and /aa/ and are functions words. Uwu words are made up of the other phonemes and can be both function and content words. Only verbs and some foreign words end with a /v/. When using foreign words in a text written in Uwu rhotics and lateral approximants should be replaced with /w/ and nasals with /ny/, all other sounds can remain the same even if they do not appear natively in Uwu.

Grammar

Word Order

subject - verb - object preposition - demonstrative - noun - adjective - genitive - relative clause adjective - adverb particle - verb - adverb modal verb - verb

Compound words are head-initial.

Inflection

owo what's that?

Number

Grammatical number can be expressed using numerals or adjectives such as "üwo - several, a few" or "ŏvo - many", though number marking is optional and often omitted.

Case

Uwu uses prepositions instead of inflectional noun cases:

Genitive (possession)	uv	of, from
Dative (indirect object)	ù	to
Locative (location, direction)	ù	at, in, on, to

Tense, Aspect & Mood

There is no morphological tense marking in Uwu, tense is marked semantically with temporal adverbs. Aspect and mood can be expressed using modal auxiliaries and adverbs:

ability, permission	úv	can, to be able to, to be allowed to, to be ready to obligation, need	òv	must, to be obligated to, to need wish, intention	òvov	to want, to intend habitual	ovuvo	often, regularly, usually, [in past:] used to inceptive	ovüv	to start, to begin cessative	övùv	to stop, to cease
perfective	uvov	to finish

Vocabulary

Numerals

Uwu uses the binary system for numerals. The digit 0 is represented by "o" and 1 by "u", and in between every two vowels a "w" is inserted.

Example Numerals

decimal	binary	Uwu
0	0	o
1	1	u
2	10	uwo
10	1010	uwowuwo
69	1000101	uwowowuwowu
420	110100100	uwuwowuwowowuwowo

Pronouns

1101104115
first person	ow	I, we
second person	uw	you
third person	öwo	he, she, it, they

reflexive (any person)	üwu	myself, yourself, himself, herself, itself, themselves
reciprocal (any person)	üwuwo	each other

Gender

Uwu words are gender neutral by default, gender can be specified with adjectives but does not exist as a grammatical category:

uvu	non-binary
uvü	female
üvu	male

Examples

Simple Sentences

There is no copula in Uwu: ôwö ùwü

sun hot

"The sun is hot."

òvü öwúv dress spin

"Dress go spinny."

ow úwuv ówü ûw I love cat all

"I love all cats."

Negation

The particle "o" negates the word following it and is most often used on verbs to negate a statement:

ow õ uvuv òw öwŏ I NEG sleep this night

"I didn't sleep tonight."

övö õ ówo tree NEG big "The tree isn't big."

Relative Clauses

öwo ow õv ûwövu öwo ũvòv ù üwò uv üwù he see spider that sit LOC foot GEN bed

"He sees the spider that sits under the bed."

Since Uwu lacks participles it uses simple relative clauses to express that meaning:

ow öv ŏwo öwo ovov I have dog that talk "I have a talking dog."

Questions

The question particle "ov" can be used to form interrogative pronouns and sentences using the word following it:

ov üwów uw ũwùv òw
INT time you go here
"When will you come?"

```
òvov ŭwo uw ov
                          ow
      INT
you want kiss
                          I
"Do you want to kiss me?"
```

uw òvov ŭwo ov ow you INT want kiss "Do you want to kiss me?"

Comparison

" ŭv" is used to compare things and can mean both "as" and "than":

ûwövu ówo ŭv ŏwo bug big as dog "The bug is as big as a dog."

üwôw ówo ŏvo ŭv ŏwo horse big more than dog "Horses are bigger than dogs."

Adjectives and adverbs can be reduplicated to form a superlative:

òwuvo ùwovuõvù õvù õvù onion vegetable good good "Onions are the best vegetable."

Tense, Aspect & Mood

òν õwóvov ũw uw úwüwõ ŏvo must learn FUT thing many you

"You will need to learn many things."

ŏwov ovuwõ öwo úv NEG can PST he read "He could not read."

òvov övòwu ow úvuv owo I want wear that shirt "I want to wear that shirt."

ow ûvüv ovuwõ ovuvo ŭvüwo Ι create PST HAB boring.meme "I used to make boring memes."

Imperative - ovò

The particle "ovo" is used to express determination or, in second person, an imperative:

õvöv uw õvò õ IMP vou NEG lie "Do not lie!"

õvò ovüv ow IMP we begin

"We shall begin!" or "Let us begin!"

Politeness - nyáa

The particle "nyáa" is used to make a phrase more polite, usually lowering the intensity of the verb. Unlike most particles "nyáa" is used at the end of the clause it modifies. It can often, but not always, be translated with "please":

uw õvò òwuv üvũ ù ow nyáa you IMP give drink DAT I please "Please give me a drink."

uw òv õ ũwùv nyáa you must NEG leave please "You shouldn't leave."

ow òvov ovov uwü uv uw nyáa I want speak child GEN you please "I would like to talk to your child."

uw uvuv õvù nyáa you sleep well please "May you sleep well."

Conditional Sentences - nya

The verbal particle "nya" marks a clause as protasis, and verbs in the same sentence lacking it are assumed to belong to the apodisis:

uw nya ũwùv ow ũwùv öw uw you COND go I go with you "If you go I will come with you."

uw nya õ õvöv ŏvo ovuwõ ow nya õ üvŏv uw you COND NEG lie much PST I COND NEG dislike you "If you hadn't lied so much I wouldn't dislike you."

ow nya owov ovuwo owo ow nya ùwov ovuwo owo I COND see PST she I COND thank PST she "If I had seen her I would have thanked her."

Word Usage Examples:

ôvöv

ow ôvöv ôvöw ù öwo I ask question DAT they "I ask them a question."

ow ôvöv ŏwo ù öwo I ask dog DAT they

"I ask them about the dog."

ow ôvöv uwü úwuv ŏwo ù öwo I ask child like dog DAT they "I ask them if the child likes dogs."

owõv

"owov" is used for perception with any sense, if necessary the sense can be specified:

ówü owőv ŏvuwő cat perceive music "The cat listens to music."

owõv ówii ÖW ovowü ô ÖW ow õ ovovo perceive cat with but NEG with Ι ear eye "I hear the cat but cannot see it."

ówuv

"ówuv", "to change, to make", is used with an adjetive to express an action that results in that adjective:

ówüwuówuv ûvovo ũvowu

catgirl make open window

"The catgirl opens the window."

òwo ûvü ûvovo ûw ôvuvuperson work make whole house"The builder completes the house."

ù

"ù" is a general marker for locations and can mean "at", "in", "on" or "to" depending on the context:

ow ũwùv ù úwuvo I go LOC friend

"I go to [my] friend."

uwü uvuv ù üwù child sleep LOC bed "The child sleeps in the bed."

It can be expanded by a genitival clause to be more precise:

ŏwouvuvùõwuuvüwùdogsleepLOChandGENbed

"The dog sleeps next to the bed."

uwo

Apart from being a normal numeral "uwo", "two", can be used to denote two things treated as a unit:

öwo úwuv öwö uwo uv üwu she love parent two of herself "She loves her parents."

õvüwŏ öv ovovo uwo ówo lizard have eye two big "The lizad has big eyes."

úwu

Primarily meaning "gay" or otherwise belonging to the LGBT spectrum, "úwu" can also mean "good" or "cute" and is a common compliment in Uwu:

úwö üvu uv uw úwu sibling male GEN you gay "Your brother is nice."

òw üwóvu úwuthis skirt gay"This skirt is cute."

Common Greetings

öwú úwu day gay/good "Good day!"
